

Research on the Legal Guarantee Measures in the Process of Agricultural Modernization in China

Wen Yuan

Chongqing Three Gorges University, Wanzhou, 404200, Chongqing, China

yuanwen2006@163.com

Keywords: Agricultural Modernization, Comprehensive National Strength, Legal Guarantee.

Abstract: At present, promoting the development of China's agricultural modernization is an important policy to enhance the comprehensive strength of the country. In order to realize the healthy development of agricultural modernization, we must establish a complete and reliable legal system to provide protection and support. Combined with the analysis of the current development situation, the relevant laws and regulations for the development of agricultural modernization in China still need to be continuously strengthened and improved, and the realization of the grand goal of agricultural modernization still faces many challenges. Therefore, the author combined with the current development of agricultural modernization in China to analyze and explore how to improve the legal protection, for the reference of relevant scholars.

1. Introduction

With the healthy development of agricultural modernization in recent years, it provides strong support, promotion and guarantee for the construction of socialist market economy. Combined with the actual situation of the development of agricultural modernization in China at present and the influence of various environments on the development of agricultural modernization, we must establish and improve the innovation system of agricultural modernization, build a complete and reliable legal guarantee system for the development of agricultural modernization, create good conditions for agricultural production, and improve the legal system for the current agricultural development. The dilemma provides a reliable guarantee, discusses the establishment of a scientific and perfect legal system, and then promotes the healthy and stable development of agricultural modernization.

Figure 1 Agricultural modernization

2. The Problems of Legal Guarantee in the Development of Agricultural Modernization in China

2.1. Low Availability of Laws and Regulations

In order to promote the development of China's agricultural modernization, we should also improve the legal norms and constraints under the guidance of national policies. National policies can only guide the masses to make clear the development direction and development plan, but can not regulate the rights and responsibilities of the masses, so we need to establish a scientific and perfect legal system to regulate the behaviour of the masses. However, according to the current situation, the laws and regulations involved in the development of agricultural modernization in China are not perfect, resulting in some acts violating the original intention of national policies can not be regulated by the law, and only party discipline and political discipline can be punished, which seriously affects the healthy development of agricultural modernization.

2.2. Not Paying Attention to Legislation

Combined with the analysis of the current situation, the legal planning work related to the development of agricultural modernization in China still reflects some colors of planned economy, and the relevant laws and regulations are still formulated and promulgated in the transitional period of social and economic construction. This part of the legal norms can not effectively solve the market demand for the development of agricultural modernization. At present, the development of agricultural market is constantly changing, but However, the legislative work has not been updated in time, resulting in the relevant laws and regulations can not provide effective guarantee for the current development of agricultural modernization, because the legislative work and market development are separated from each other, which seriously increases the implementation difficulty of the relevant legal system. In addition, due to the slow renewal of relevant legislation in the process of agricultural modernization development, some relevant supporting laws can not be promulgated in time after some laws and regulations are promulgated, which seriously affects the enforceability of these laws and regulations, and thus causes the role of these laws and regulations can not be effectively played.

2.3. Lack of Legal Perfection of Rural Household Registration System

In order to promote the development of agricultural modernization in China, we must adhere to the development concept of urban-rural integration, implement the development policy of citizenization of agricultural transfer population, and then promote the smooth development of agricultural modernization. But combined with the current agricultural development, based on the policy support of the state, although the rural areas are getting better and better with the development of agricultural modernization, but the number of agricultural workers is decreasing. For the development of the next generation, most farmers choose to work in cities for a long time, which to a certain extent also affects the development process of agricultural modernization.

At this stage, the country is still in the initial stage of implementing the citizenization of agricultural transfer population, and the relevant legal protection is not perfect, because most laws and regulations refer to the legislative standards of the planned economy period. It focuses on the protection of the rights and interests of urban workers, white-collar workers, blue collar workers and other types of workers, but most of the laws and regulations can not provide reliable protection for the rights and interests of farmers. Therefore, the traditional household registration system also has a certain degree of impact on the process of the citizenization of the agricultural transfer population. Some migrant workers who work in dirty, tired and hard positions in the city can get far less than the treatment of urban workers, can not be fully protected by the labor law, and can not get the legitimate rights and interests, and then the agricultural modernization of our country Development has a bad impact.

Figure 2 Agriculture

3. Ways to Improve the Legal Guarantee System in the Development of Agricultural Modernization in China

3.1. Improve the Enforceability of Laws and Regulations

In order to effectively enhance the reliable role of laws and regulations, we must comprehensively implement and promote the legislative work, and build a complete and reliable legal system through continuous improvement of laws and regulations related to agricultural modernization, and finally provide strong support and guarantee for the development of agricultural modernization in China. And we need to implement the policy of "separation of three powers" which is emphasized by the state. In the process of promoting the legislation, we must implement the policy spirit of the Party Central Committee and avoid the failure of the development plan of agricultural modernization. At the same time, we should also strengthen the concept of "three rights" checks and balances. The masses should have reasonable rights and interests such as supervision, management and use rights, while collective organizations should legally own the rights and interests such as the ownership, management and disposal rights of the land.

3.2. Promoting the Real-Time Nature of Legislative Work

The legislative work must keep up with the development of agricultural modernization market at all times. In the process of carrying out the legislative work, it is necessary to abandon the influence of the transition from planned economy to market economy, try to meet the development needs of the current agricultural market, and provide reliable legal guarantee for the development of agricultural modernization. The legislative work should meet the needs of the development of agricultural modernization market. In order to connect with each other and enhance the enforceability of law effectively. After the promulgation of new laws and regulations, the legislative department needs to actively improve the relevant laws and regulations, prevent loopholes in the legal system, and enhance the role of the legal system.

At present, rural cooperatives play a great role in the development of agricultural modernization in China, but there are still some deficiencies in the legal system related to rural cooperatives. Therefore, it is necessary to improve the supporting legal system, and integrate the contents of land equity, internal credit cooperation, agricultural technical cooperation, and cooperatives into it. At the same time, it is also necessary to make clear The responsibilities and authorities of the leaders of all departments and other staff shall be protected to avoid the bad phenomenon of arbitrage in the cooperative by using legal loopholes.

3.3. Improve the Household Registration System

With the continuous improvement of China's comprehensive national strength in recent years, the process of urban-rural integration is gradually deepening. In addition, the number of farmers transferred to urban work and life is gradually increasing. After the transfer of agricultural population to urban areas, the labor strength of the city is effectively enhanced, and the healthy development of the city is correspondingly promoted. Therefore, the reform of household registration system should be effectively implemented to ensure the labor of farmers. The rights and interests of the movers and the healthy development of agricultural modernization.

Therefore, in order to promote the development process of agricultural modernization, it is very important to effectively implement the citizenization of agricultural transfer population. Relevant workers must correctly realize that the citizenization of agricultural transfer population needs to be carried out in a long-term and systematic way. The existing relevant laws and regulations should be adjusted and improved in real time through the continuous establishment of relevant legal norms for the citizenization of the whole agricultural transfer population. Legal measures should be taken to strengthen the protection of the legitimate labor rights and interests of farmers, promote the process of citizenization of farmers, effectively transform the policies advocated by the state into reliable laws and regulations, implement the legislative work in housing, work, household registration, education and medical care, labor employment in housing, social security, urban household registration, education and medical care, labor employment, etc., and accelerate the transfer of agricultural people. The process of citizenization.

Figure 3 Agricultural transfer

3.4. Pay Attention to the Management and Protection of Rural Ecological Environment

3.4.1. Adhere to the Basic Principle of Protecting the Natural Environment

The purpose of strengthening the construction of ecological security pattern is to maintain the balanced development of human and nature, that is, to improve the ecological environment construction based on the traditional agricultural construction and the development needs of modern agriculture. Human and nature are interdependent, coordinated and adaptive. Therefore, in order to better maintain the sustainable development of human social civilization, in the process of agricultural modernization, we must adhere to the basic principles of protecting the natural environment to carry out ecological governance on the construction of ecological security pattern, enhance people's awareness of natural protection, and then guarantee the sustainable development of human social civilization. The successful construction of ecological environment and the sustainable development of agricultural modernization.

3.4.2. Adhere to the Basic Principle of Sustainable Development of Ecological Environment

In the process of agricultural modernization development, any engineering measures should be comprehensively analyzed in combination with the situation of ecological environment safety itself, considering the sustainable development of environmental engineering, improvement of ecological environment, optimization of environmental resources and other factors, and building high-quality environmental engineering to meet the needs of social development and human life, so as to effectively improve rural life. State system, improve people's quality of life, achieve the goal of sustainable development of environmental resources. There is no doubt that it is necessary to further strengthen the work of rural ecological environment protection.

4. Conclusion

In accordance with the law of agricultural development in China, in combination with the current situation of agricultural modernization and the needs of legal security, we should establish and improve the legal and regulatory system of agricultural modernization, provide solid legal support for the research and development of agricultural science and technology in China's modernization, and effectively guarantee the safety of grain production. Improve the efficiency of grain production, and then promote the healthy and stable development of China's agricultural modernization.

References

- [1] Hu, Chenghua. Research on legal guarantee of agricultural modernization with Chinese characteristics. Ningxia agroforestry Technology (8)
- [2] Zhang, Weier. (2019). The development of agricultural industrialization from the perspective of Law -- review of agricultural laws and regulations. Chinese edible fungus, no. 7.
- [3] Cao, Yifu., He, Guorong. (2019). Analysis on the improvement of the legal security system of farmers' education and training in the context of Rural Revitalization -- Based on the perspective of comparative law. Legal system and society, no. 14, pp. 31-33