The concept of the rule of law in China refers to the main body of the rule of law. Under the guidance of the spirit of the rule of law and the belief, the rule of law is used to restrict the rule of law, thereby realizing the equal participation and development of the people. Based on the analysis of the rule of law, it is not only the way of governing the country, but also the rational inheritance of the governance of the country and the rule of law. The rule of law China is the Communist Party of China. It draws on the concept of governing the country extracted from the excellent rule of law at home and abroad. It is influenced by factors such as national conditions and socialist system, and it has obvious Chinese characteristics. The rule of law China is the refinement of ruling the country according to law, with richer levels and connotations, and higher requirements for the rule of law. It is the basic guarantee for national development and the norm for economic development and party building.

The improvement of the level of rule of law in the work of party building in colleges and universities is not unrelated to the basic guarantee of the rule of law and authority. The grassroots party organizations under the leadership of the Party committees of colleges and universities are the front line to implement the party's theoretical guidelines and policy lines, and are an indispensable part of the party's governance. They shoulder the responsibility and responsibility of connecting and guiding the masses and deepening the policies to the grassroots level [1] .
