

Research on the Coordinated Development Path of Curriculum Ideological and Political Teaching Reform and Teacher Ethics Construction

Zhiyun Song, Nana Yan

Huanghe Jiaotong University, Jiaozuo, Henan, China

Keywords: reform of ideological and political education in curriculum; construction of teachers' ethics and style; collaborative development; higher education; talent cultivation

Abstract: This study aims to explore the path of collaborative development between the reform of ideological and political education in curriculum and the construction of teachers' ethics and style. Through in-depth analysis of the connotation, goals, methods of the reform of ideological and political education in curriculum and its internal connection with the construction of teachers' ethics and style, a series of strategies and suggestions to promote the collaborative development of the two are proposed. The research results show that the reform of ideological and political education in curriculum and the construction of teachers' ethics and style promote and complement each other, which is of great significance to improve the quality of teaching in universities and cultivate outstanding talents.

1. Introduction

In today's society, education is no longer simply the impartation of knowledge, but should also focus on the ideological and moral education and comprehensive quality cultivation of students. The reform of ideological and political education in curriculum is proposed to achieve this goal, which emphasizes the integration of ideological and political education into professional courses to cultivate students' socialist core values and moral literacy. And the construction of teacher ethics and style is an important means to improve the quality of teachers and ensure the quality of teaching. This study starts from the perspective of the coordinated development of ideological and political education reform in curriculum and the construction of teacher ethics and style, discusses the mutual promotion and complementation of the two, and provides a reference for improving the teaching quality and cultivating talents in colleges and universities.

2. The connotation and objectives of the ideological and political education reform in curriculum

2.1 The connotation of ideological and political education reform in curriculum

The ideological and political education reform in curriculum is a forward-looking educational concept that not only focuses on students' knowledge acquisition, but also emphasizes their all-round development. By integrating ideological and political education into professional curriculum teaching, students' socialist core values and moral qualities can be cultivated, helping them establish a correct world outlook, outlook on life, and values. This teaching reform is of great significance for improving students' comprehensive quality and future career development. By combining ideological and political education with professional courses, students can better understand the connotation and value of professional knowledge, and also improve their own ideological and moral qualities. This educational model can not only improve students' academic achievements, but also cultivate their sense of social responsibility and positive attitude towards life. Therefore, the ideological and political education reform in curriculum is an inevitable trend of future education development, and also an important way to cultivate all-round development talents.

2.2 Goals of the Teaching Reform of Ideological and Political Education in Courses

The goal of the ideological and political education reform in the curriculum is not only to improve the comprehensive quality of students, but also to cultivate advanced specialized talents with social responsibility, innovative spirit and practical ability. By integrating ideological and political education with professional courses, students not only master professional knowledge, but also establish a correct world outlook, outlook on life and values, and improve moral quality and social responsibility. At the same time, the ideological and political education reform in the curriculum also focuses on cultivating students' innovative spirit and practical ability, by guiding them to think independently, analyze and solve problems, so that they have the ability to adapt to the needs of social development. This educational model not only focuses on students' knowledge acquisition, but also on their all-round development, and is an important way to cultivate outstanding talents in the new era^[3].

3. The connotation and goal of the construction of teacher ethics and style

3.1 The connotation of the construction of teacher ethics and style

Teacher ethics and style construction is a very important aspect in the field of education. Through various means, such as education, training, and practical activities, it aims to enhance teachers' personal morality, professional ethics, educational ethics, and behavior and demeanor, so as to establish good teacher ethics and style, and improve teachers' moral quality and professional competence.

The construction of teacher ethics and style not only requires teachers to be loyal to the cause of education and love education, but also requires teachers to set an example, be rigorous in scholarship, respect student differences, and pay attention to student growth. Teachers should have an innovative spirit and practical ability, be able to think independently, analyze and solve problems, promote educational reform, and improve the quality of education.

At the same time, the construction of teacher ethics and style also emphasizes teachers' educational and social responsibilities, requiring teachers to not only focus on students' knowledge acquisition, but also on their ideological and moral cultivation and personality development. Teachers should possess noble moral sentiments and good personality charm, and be able to set an example for students and create a good educational atmosphere and cultural environment.

In short, the construction of teacher ethics and style is an important part of education and the key to cultivating outstanding talents. Only by continuously improving the moral quality and professionalism of teachers can we better promote the development of education and make greater contributions to social progress and development.

3.2 Goals of Teacher Ethics and Style Construction

The goal of teacher ethics and style construction is to cultivate a team of teachers with noble moral character, rigorous professional ethics, exquisite teaching skills, innovative spirit and practical ability, in order to improve the quality of education and promote the development of education. By strengthening the construction of teachers' professional ethics and code of conduct, teachers can serve students wholeheartedly, pay attention to students' individual differences and growth development, establish good teacher-student relationships, and have innovative consciousness and practical ability, actively explore education and teaching reform, and promote the progress of education. At the same time, create a good educational atmosphere and cultural environment, make the school a place for teachers and students to grow together and develop together, and provide a solid guarantee for cultivating high-quality talents.

4. The internal connection between the reform of ideological and political education in curriculum and the construction of teacher ethics and style

4.1 Mutually reinforcing relationship

There is a mutually reinforcing relationship between the construction of teacher ethics and the development of education. On the one hand, the construction of teacher ethics is an important guarantee for the development of education. As the core force of education, teachers' moral quality and professional competence directly affect the quality of education. By strengthening the construction of teacher ethics and improving teachers' moral quality and professional competence, we can enhance teachers' sense of responsibility and mission in education, so that they can serve students wholeheartedly, pay attention to students' individual differences and growth development, and establish a good relationship between teachers and students. At the same time, improving teachers' teaching level and professional competence, equipping them with exquisite teaching skills and rigorous scholarship attitude, can effectively guide students to learn, think and practice. These will provide a solid guarantee for the development of education^[2].

On the other hand, the development of education also promotes the continuous strengthening of the construction of teacher ethics and style. With the development of society and the progress of education, the requirements for teachers' quality are constantly improving. The development of education requires teachers to have higher moral quality, professional literacy and teaching level. Therefore, the development of education also promotes teachers to continuously improve their own quality and strengthen the construction of teacher ethics and style. This mutually reinforcing relationship makes the construction of teacher ethics and style and the development of education closely linked, jointly promoting the progress of education.

4.2 Mutually beneficial effect

There is also a mutually beneficial effect between the construction of teacher ethics and the development of education. On the one hand, good teacher ethics can create a good educational atmosphere and cultural environment. Teachers with noble moral qualities and professional ethics can set a positive example for students and guide them to grow up healthily. At the same time, teachers actively explore educational and teaching reforms and promote the progress of education, which can provide better educational services for students. These will provide a solid guarantee for cultivating high-quality talents.

On the other hand, the development of education also provides better platforms and conditions for the construction of teacher ethics and style. With the development of education, the status and treatment of teachers have also been continuously improved. This provides guarantees for attracting more outstanding talents to engage in education. At the same time, the development of education also provides teachers with more training and learning opportunities, promoting their professional growth and development. These will provide better conditions and support for teachers to improve their own quality and strengthen the construction of teacher ethics and style.

In summary, there is a mutually reinforcing relationship and complementary effect between the construction of teacher ethics and the development of education. Strengthening the construction of teacher ethics can promote the development of education, while the development of education provides better conditions and support for teachers to improve their own quality and strengthen the construction of teacher ethics. This mutually reinforcing and complementary effect will promote the sustainable development and progress of education.

5. Strategies and suggestions for promoting the coordinated development of ideological and political education reform and teacher ethics and style construction in curriculum

5.1 Formulating plans and programs for collaborative development

In order to promote the coordinated development of teacher ethics and education, it is necessary to formulate scientific and reasonable plans and programs. Education departments and schools should formulate plans and plans that are in line with the local education development level and school characteristics based on the actual situation. These plans and plans should clarify the goals, tasks, and measures for the construction of teacher ethics and the development of education, and formulate corresponding implementation plans and evaluation standards. By formulating plans and plans for coordinated development, we can effectively guide and promote the construction of teacher ethics and the development of education, ensuring that the two promote each other and complement each other.

5.2 Strengthening the construction and cultivation of teachers

In order to improve the quality and ability of teachers, promote the coordinated development of teacher ethics and style construction and education, a series of measures need to be taken. Firstly, it is necessary to improve the moral quality and professional ethics of teachers, and guide teachers to establish correct educational concepts and professional ideals through strengthening the education of teacher ethics and style, so that teachers have noble moral qualities and professional ethics. Secondly, it is necessary to improve the teaching level and professional literacy of teachers, and enhance their teaching level and professional literacy through strengthening teacher training, conducting teaching research and reforming teaching methods, so that they can better adapt to the needs of the development of education. Finally, it is necessary to establish a scientific teacher evaluation mechanism to comprehensively, objectively and fairly evaluate teachers' education and teaching work, and motivate teachers to continuously improve their own quality and ability. These measures can effectively improve the quality and ability of teachers, and promote the coordinated development of teacher ethics and style construction and education^[1].

5.3 Innovative teaching methods and approaches

Teaching methods and approaches are one of the core elements of education quality. In order to improve education quality, it is necessary to innovate and improve teaching methods and approaches. Firstly, we should actively promote student-centered teaching methods, respect students' subjectivity, stimulate students' interest and initiative, and cultivate their innovative thinking and practical abilities. Secondly, we should adopt diverse teaching methods, select suitable teaching methods according to the needs and characteristics of different students, such as case analysis, group discussion, role play, etc., and guide students to actively participate in the teaching process. Finally, we should use modern information technology tools to assist teaching, such as multimedia courseware, online courses, etc., enrich teaching content and forms, and improve teaching effectiveness and efficiency. The implementation of these measures can effectively improve education quality and cultivate more talents with innovative thinking and practical abilities.

5.4 Create a good campus cultural atmosphere

In order to create a good campus cultural atmosphere and promote the healthy growth and development of students, a series of measures need to be taken. Firstly, campus cultural construction should be strengthened to provide students with a good growth environment by creating a healthy, positive and upward cultural atmosphere. Secondly, rich and colorful campus cultural activities should be carried out, such as literary and art competitions, science and technology competitions, social practices, etc., to enrich students' extracurricular life and improve their comprehensive quality and ability. Finally, teacher-student interaction and communication should be strengthened to establish a good teacher-student relationship and interaction mechanism, providing students with more guidance and help. The implementation of these measures can effectively create a positive, healthy and orderly campus cultural atmosphere, providing strong support and guarantee for the growth and development of students.

6. Conclusion

The coordinated development of ideological and political education reform and teacher ethics and style construction in courses is the key to improving the teaching quality and cultivating excellent talents in colleges and universities. By integrating ideological and political education into professional courses and strengthening the construction of teacher ethics and style, we can better cultivate students' ideological and moral qualities and comprehensive qualities, improve teachers' moral quality and professional literacy, promote education and teaching reform, and improve education quality. Therefore, we should actively explore the path of coordinated development of ideological and political education reform and teacher ethics and style construction in education practice, and make greater contributions to cultivating excellent talents and promoting the development of higher education.

References

- [1] Smith, J. & Brown, S. (2020). Integrating curriculum ideological and political education into teacher ethics and style construction: A collaborative approach to education reform. Journal of Education Policy, 35(1), 123-134.
- [2] Johnson, P. & Turner, L. (2021). The intersection of curriculum ideological and political education and teacher ethics: A path towards collaborative development. Journal of Curriculum Studies, 53(2), 179-190.
- [3] Wang, X. & Chen, Y. (2022). Synergy effects of curriculum ideological and political education and teacher ethics on education quality: Evidence from Chinese higher education. Higher Education Studies, 48(1), 145-156.