Abstract: Accurately grasp the theoretical basis of shared development, deeply understand the scientific connotation of shared development, and deeply explore the practical path of shared development, and become a realistic problem that needs to be solved in the new era to implement the concept of shared development. Guided by the basic theory of Marxism, combined with the author's teaching and scientific research results, and with reference to relevant literature, this paper proposes the realization path of the shared development concept of the new era as follows: Consolidate the material basis of shared development, and strive to promote supply-side structural reform and construction. We will share the mass base of development, improve the social distribution system of shared development, comprehensively build a multi-level social security system, strengthen theoretical research and theoretical innovation of shared development, and develop a shared development path with Chinese characteristics.

1. Introduction

The 19th National Congress of the Communist Party of China put forward a new historical orientation for China's development. Socialism with Chinese characteristics has entered a new era. Entering a new era is a scientific judgment made from the overall vision of the development of the cause of the party and the state, from the course of the 40 years of reform and opening up, the historical achievements made since the 18th National Congress, and the orientation of historical changes. A deep understanding of the scientific nature of this major judgment is of great significance for accurately grasping the historical position of contemporary China and opening a great journey of socialism with Chinese characteristics in a new era with a firm and confident attitude. The entry of socialism with Chinese characteristics into a new era is the result of taking care of the reality in the new era by using the criteria of the Marxist era. This new era is an era of inheriting the past and the future, continuing to open up, and continuing to win the great victory of socialism with Chinese characteristics under new historical conditions.

The report of the 19th National Congress of the Communist Party of China pointed out that "development is the foundation and key to solving all problems in China. Development must be scientific development. We must unswervingly implement the development concept of innovation, coordination, green, openness and sharing." As the core and destination of the new development concept, the concept of shared development is the theoretical innovation of the socialist ideology with Chinese characteristics in the new era and the inheritance and development of Marxist theory. The concept of shared development is a comprehensive sharing of political, economic, cultural, social, ecological and other aspects; it is the sharing of all the people that benefit all sectors of society; it is a co-construction sharing of benign and sustainable development in interaction; it is gradual sharing of quantitative and qualitative changes. As an important part of Xi Jinping's new era of socialism with Chinese characteristics, the concept of shared development reflects the inherent requirements of socialism with Chinese characteristics, enriches and develops the theory of the essence of socialism, and is a major concept innovation that conforms to the laws of economic and social development in the new era. In-depth study of the theoretical connotation and realization path of the shared development concept of the new era, transforming the concept of shared development into the practice of reform and development, is of great significance to the persistence and development of socialism with Chinese characteristics in the new era.

2. The Theoretical Connotation of the Concept of Sharing Development in the New Era

"Sharing development" consists of two words: sharing and development. It refers to the results achieved by members of society participating in social construction and promoting social development. There is a dialectical relationship between sharing and development. Development is the premise and foundation of sharing. Only when social material resources and spiritual and cultural resources are rich enough, members of society can have the opportunity to benefit from development results. Sharing is the goal and destination of development. The ultimate goal of social development is to promote the sharing of human development, so that members of society can enjoy the development achievements and obtain the rights and opportunities for development. Sharing and development are organic and unified, and both are indispensable. Insufficient development, sharing has no material basis, the material conditions of people's lives cannot be met; sharing is uneven, social unrest, lack of motivation for development, and people's lives are difficult to be happy and harmonious. The two can only achieve organic unity in continuous development and practice. The concept of sharing development in the new era is based on the basic theory of Marxism, systematically sums up the basic national conditions and objective reality of contemporary China, and proposes innovative theoretical results in the new era that ultimately realize the common development of the people. It has abundant theoretical connotations:

(1) Shared development subject: the entire people. The main body of shared development is people, but it must be comprehensive coverage, without discrimination and prejudice, that is, the entire people. We need adhere to the people-centered thinking, and fully mobilize the people's enthusiasm, initiative and creativity, based on the wisdom and labor of the people. In order to enable all people to share the fruits of reform and development and successfully accomplish the objectives and tasks of building a well-off society in an all-round way, we must earnestly implement the concept of shared development, adhere to development for the people, rely on the people for development, share the fruits of development, and truly solve the problems that the people care most. We will safeguard the interests of the people and safeguard the fundamental interests of the broadest masses of the people.

(2) Shared development content: full sharing. The specific content of the sharing is comprehensive and rich. Sharing development requires sharing the achievements of the country's economic, political, cultural, social and ecological aspects, and comprehensively safeguarding the legitimate rights and interests of the people in all aspects. To understand, we must provide everyone with the right and opportunity to participate in social development on an equal footing. We must share the material and cultural achievements of reform and development, share high-quality basic public services such as education, employment, medical care and social security, and share a safe, harmonious and comfortable living environment and share. Green mountains and green waters and blue sky and white clouds are to eliminate poverty, improve people's livelihood, and gradually achieve common prosperity.

(3) The goal of shared development: common prosperity. Common prosperity is the universal affluence of material culture based on the elimination of polarization and exploitation system by all the people through labor and mutual cooperation. It is the fundamental goal and realistic choice for adhering to the socialist road with Chinese characteristics. Shared development and common prosperity are the essential requirements of socialism, and both require the elimination of the system of polarization and exploitation. Sharing development is the premise of common prosperity, the concrete steps and realistic ways to achieve common prosperity; common prosperity is the result of shared development. Sharing development and common prosperity are unified in the great practice of building socialism with Chinese characteristics.

(4) Protection of shared development: institutional arrangements. Governing the country, the system plays a fundamental, overall and long-term role. To realize the realization of the concept of shared development, in the final analysis, effective institutional arrangements are needed as a solid backing. How to coordinate the interests of multiple forces and eliminate the negative impact of social transformation is the key issue that needs to be resolved in the process of promoting shared development. It is necessary to build an institutional guarantee system for shared development: adhere to the basic economic system with public ownership as the main body, improve the political system of the people's democracy, reform the income distribution system with fairness, and improve the social security system and the basic public service system.

(5) The principle of shared development: fairness and justice. Fairness and justice are important signs of human civilization and a measure of the development of a country or social civilization. Social harmony and interpersonal harmony are all important conditions for fairness and justice. Sharing development requires that all the results achieved be distributed fairly and reasonably among all the people. Without fairness and justice, shared development cannot be implemented. Therefore, fairness and justice are important conditions for the realization of the concept of shared development, and also the standard for testing shared development. Only by grasping the ultimate direction of socialist fairness and justice can we ensure that everyone can develop freely and comprehensively.

3. The Significance of Sharing the Development Concept in the New Era

The entry of socialism with Chinese characteristics into a new era is also an era of inheriting the past and the future, continuing to open up, and continuing to win the great victory of socialism with Chinese characteristics under new historical conditions. It is of great and far-reaching significance to profoundly understand and accurately grasp the strategic significance of the shared development concept, to promote the sustainable development of China's future economic society, and to achieve the goal of building a well-off society in an all-round way.

(1) The concept of shared development is the inheritance and development of Marxism. Pursuing human liberation and development is the highest proposition of Marxism. Regarding the theory of shared development, although the works of Marx and Engels are not clearly stated, from the Marxist mass history to the free and all-round development of human beings, from the development of productive forces to the idea of fairness and justice, they have laid a solid theoretical support for the concept of shared development. The core and theoretical basis of the shared development concept is derived from the shared thinking of Marxism.

(2) The concept of shared development is a theoretical innovation of the concept of social development in China. The concept of shared development is the core of the new development concept, the product of the combination of Marxism and China's reality, the concentrated expression of development experience since the reform and opening up, the core value of the socialist development concept. The concept of shared development also reflects the deepening of the Chinese Communist Party's understanding of the road to socialist modernization. Compared with the previous concept of development, the concept of shared development emphasizes the value and essence of development and pays more attention to the unification of the development process and purpose.

(3) The concept of shared development is a positive response to the realities of the new era. The concept of shared development contains profound problem awareness and focuses on the outstanding problems in the development of Chinese society in the new era. After the rapid development of reform and opening up, the people's living standards have undergone earth-shaking changes. Socialism with Chinese characteristics has entered a new era, but a series of problems and contradictions accumulated in the field of social and people's livelihood have also begun to stand out. The system deployment made by the shared development concept is a positive response to real problems.

(4) The concept of shared development is an important driving force for building a well-off society in an all-round way. Building a well-off society in an all-round way is a phased goal of achieving common prosperity. The general improvement of people's living standards and quality is an important symbol of building a well-off society in an all-round way. In the road of building a well-off society in an all-round way, there are still many "short boards" that must be solidly shared and developed by the whole society. Adhering to the concept of shared development is an inevitable requirement for enhancing development momentum. Adhering to the concept of shared development is the only way to achieve common prosperity.

(5) The concept of shared development highlights the world significance of building a community of human destiny. The community of human destiny, aiming at pursuing national interests, takes into account the legitimate concerns of other countries and promotes the common development of all countries in the pursuit of national development. Building a community of human destiny is a general trend that focuses on the development of the world and the times. It focuses on the outstanding problems faced by all mankind and embodies the wisdom of China and the new ideas of the feelings of the world. The world builds a community of human destiny, realizes win-win sharing, and enriches the connotation of sharing ideas.

4. The Realization Path of the Shared Development Concept in the New Era

The concept of shared development is rooted in Marxist theory, based on the trend of the times and the reality of socialism with Chinese characteristics, conforms to the development direction of socialism in the new era, and can guide the deepening reform and innovation and development of the new generation, narrowing the gap between the rich and the poor, and maintaining the society. Harmony and stability, and ultimately to the path of common prosperity, has extremely significant practical significance. Accurately grasp the theoretical basis of shared development, deeply understand the scientific connotation of shared development, and deeply explore the practical path of shared development, and become a realistic problem that needs to be solved in the new era to implement the concept of shared development. Referring to the relevant literature, the realization path of the new era shared development concept proposed in this paper is as follows:

(1) Consolidate the material basis for shared development. The concept of shared development is a concept innovation that respects the laws of economy and society. We must adhere to economic development as the center and develop productivity in order to provide a solid material foundation for achieving a higher level of shared development. Development and sharing, the two do not exist in isolation, but the relationship of mutual promotion and dialectical unity. Development is the basis of sharing, and sharing is the purpose of development. The concept of shared development must focus on the historical development path and the choice of the country's national conditions, vigorously develop the economy, consolidate the foundation of shared development, firmly hold the center of economic construction unwavering, further deepen reform, liberate and develop social productive forces, and better play. The leading role of the economy in shared development.

(2) Efforts will be made to promote structural reforms on the supply side. The supply-side structural reform aims to adjust the economic structure, optimize the allocation of factors, and improve the quality and quantity of economic growth. The sharing development has a very close internal relationship with the supply-side structural reform. Promoting the supply-side structural reform is conducive to providing a solid material foundation for shared development, and achieving shared development is conducive to further improving the quality and efficiency of the supply system and enhance the economic growth of endogenous growth. We will implement the shared development concept of "Everyone participates, everyone does our best, and enjoy everyone", further improve the production relationship, improve the supply quality and efficiency of labor factors, vigorously promote structural reforms on the supply side, and further emancipate and develop social productivity to unleash and enhance social vitality.

(3) Building a mass base for shared development. The various policies, and work arrangements of the Party and the state require the true support and support of the people to be effectively implemented. Sharing development must uphold the people's dominant position, emphasizing that the purpose of development is for the people, and that the vital interests of the masses should be taken as the standard for testing development. Rely on the consensus and wisdom of the people, improve the policy ideas from the people's practice creation and development, and constantly consolidate the mass base for deepening reform and opening up. Innovate the diversified input and supply mechanism of public services, create equal opportunities for the people to build and share the fruits of social development, and promote the sharing of social development achievements by all members of society, especially the socially disadvantaged groups, and build a broad mass base for promoting shared development.

(4) Improve the social distribution system of shared development. The distribution system is the general term for the division and distribution system of labor products in social subjects. A reasonable distribution system is an important embodiment of social equity. China implements a system in which distribution according to work is the mainstay and multiple modes of distribution coexist. Combining distribution according to work and distribution according to production factors can mobilize the enthusiasm of all parties, promote economic efficiency and promote the development of productive forces. The two sides of distribution and development complement each other. We must uphold and improve the basic socialist distribution system, work hard to promote income growth and simultaneous economic growth, continuously improve institutional mechanisms and specific policies, adjust the pattern of national income distribution, continue to increase the income of urban and rural residents, and constantly narrowing the income gap.

(5) Comprehensively build a multi-level social security system. Social security is a social security system that is compatible with the institutional basis of the socialist market economy and that protects the basic life of members of society by the state and society. As an important promoter of maintaining social stability, safeguarding people's livelihood and safeguarding the country's long-term stability, social security is inextricably linked with shared development. The social security system consists of a social insurance system, a social welfare system, a social relief system, and a social care system. A sound social security system is an important pillar of the socialist market economic system. To implement a shared development concept, we must improve the social security system. As a concrete practice of practicing the concept of shared development, perfecting the social security system will inevitably promote the realization of shared development.

(6) Strengthen theoretical research and theoretical innovation of shared development. Theory is the forerunner of action. "Without the theory of revolution, there is no revolutionary action", which explains the importance of theory. The implementation of the concept of shared development requires practical exploration and theoretical innovation. At present, it is urgent to strengthen theoretical research and theoretical innovation, summarize the experiences of promoting common prosperity and shared development, sort out the difficulties and problems encountered, and propose solutions and ideas for solving problems. At present, it is urgent to solve the following three problems: First, to study the relevant theories of shared development concepts; second, to deeply study the challenges and solutions to the development of shared development in the new era; and third, establish an indicator system for evaluating the process of sharing development.

(7) Develop a shared development path with Chinese characteristics. Chinese characteristics and socialism are linked together. Chinese characteristics refer to China's national conditions. To achieve shared development, we must proceed from the actual national conditions, through theoretical innovation and practical innovation, and open up a shared development path that is in line with China's national conditions in the new era. Under the leadership of the Communist Party of China, with economic construction as the center, adhere to the four basic principles, adhere to reform and opening up, and liberate and develop social productive forces. We cannot completely copy the Western "welfare state" system model, start with the most concerned and most realistic needs of the people, step by step, adapt to local conditions, do a good job in safeguarding people's livelihood, and strive to fight poverty, strive to adhere to a comprehensive well-off society, and constantly enhance the sense of well-being and happiness of the people.
