Abstract: The newly revised "Southwest Minzu University Statute" is the latest achievement of school in promoting the management of the university by law, building a modern university system and deepening the comprehensive reform of education on the basis of school situations and national conditions. Taking the comprehensive implementation of the school statute as an opportunity, as required by the construction of a modern university system with Chinese characteristics, the whole school has further deepened the comprehensive reform, comprehensively promoted the management of school by law, accelerated the construction of a modern university system, and strived to create a new situation for distinctive and high-level university construction.

The university statute is the basic norm for institution of higher learning to run school independently, implement management and perform public functions pursuant to the law. Scientifically formulating university statute is urgently needed by the schools to run by law and deepen reforms, and is also a realistic need for colleges and universities to promote the construction of modern university system. Southwest Minzu University formulated the statute in 2003 and entirely revised it in 2014. In 2015, the Statute of Southwest Minzu University (hereinafter referred to as the “Statute”) was officially approved by the Ministry of Education and went into effect. This is a milestone in the history of school’s development. It is the latest achievement of school in promoting the management of school by law, constructing a modern university system and deepening educational comprehensive reform.

1. Fully Understand the Status and Role of the University Statute, and Unceasingly Enhance the Conscioussness and Initiative of Practicing the School Statute.

The university's statute uplinks the laws and regulations and national policies, and downlinks the school's various rules and regulations, it is the "General Charter" for the higher education institutions to run and manage schools according to law.

1.1 University charter is an important carrier for building a modern university system. The core of the modern university system is that under the guidance of the national macro-control policies, the university is oriented to the society to run schools independently according to law, and implement scientific management.

The university statute have important guiding, regulating and guaranteeing effect in clarifying the relationship between the university and the society and the various relations inside the university, defining the legal status of the university and the autonomy in running schools, regulating the behavior of the school, safeguarding the legitimate rights and interests of all parties, and elevating the level of school running. The Education Act and the Higher Education Act stipulate that institutions of higher learning must have their own statutes. The Interim Measures for the Formulation of the Statutes of Colleges and Universities in 2012 requires higher education institutions to formulate a statute, and clearly points out: The statute of higher education institutions also an important carrier for clarifying the relationship of rights and obligations inside the higher education institutions, facilitating them to perfect the governance structure, scientific development and building a modern university system.

1.2 The university statute is an important basis for advancement of management of school by law. Management of school by law is an important symbol of the modernization, standardization... and democratization of colleges and universities in China. It is an inevitable trend of management to turn from the rule of man to the rule of law. Adhering to and implementing the management of school by law will inevitably necessitate the formulation of the school statute in order to ensure that the school statute is strictly observed, the orders and prohibitions are strictly enforced. As a concentrated reflection of the university spirit, the university statute is also a reflection of the legal spirit and authority in the university. By taking the laws and regulations together with the specific actuality of the school into consideration, the university statute provides a concrete and feasible basis for the management of school by law, thereby ensuring that the university can successfully fulfill its rights and obligations within the scope stipulated by the laws and regulations and perform its mission.

1.3 University statute is an important link for advancing the modernization of school’s governance system and capacity. With the gradual establishment of the status of independent legal entity of colleges and universities, the autonomy in running schools has been increasingly expanded, the relationship of rights and obligations inside the school and its relationship with the outside world have become increasingly complicated, which raises higher requirements for the management of higher education and the internal management of universities. The university shoulders the fundamental functions like talent training, scientific research, service to society, cultural heritage and innovation, and international exchange and cooperation. A university statute is needed to stipulate and restrict how these functions will be performed in the process of running a university. Strengthening the construction of university statute, constantly perfecting the governance structure inside universities, and forming a self-disciplined and self-regulated internal management system and supervision and restriction mechanism are important links for advancing the modernization of the school governance system and capacity.

1.4 The university statute is an important symbol to manifest the school-running philosophy. The statute further confirms the school's missions, development goals, development ideas, talent training objectives and other top-level designs. This is not only the inheritance and continuation of the school running history and tradition, but also the condensation and elucidation based on the school's practical need and development vision. It plays an important role in guiding and leading the future development of the school. The process of formulating the statute is a process of condensing the consensus of the teachers and students in the whole school. The statute will further promote the universal recognition of the school's educational philosophy, and solidify the school's educational philosophy in the form of statute by approval, publication and execution, which internally unites people and externally builds images.

2. Deeply Understand the Connotation and Characteristics of the Statute, and Constantly Condense the Consensus and Strength of School Reform and Development

The revised Statute includes eight parts, namely Preface, General Rules, Organization and Structure, Students and Faculty, Assets and Finance, Campus Construction and Public Service, School and Society, and Supplementary Provisions, 90 clauses in total. The content of each clause is based on laws and regulations, taking the school situation into consideration, advancing with the times, and innovating with keen determination. It covers the main contents that should be specified in the university's statute, and has distinct scholastic characteristics.

2.1 It reflects the inheritance of traditional and the establishment of new in the theory on scholastic management. The "Statute" has established the development goal of building distinctive and high-level universities, clarifying the purpose of scholastic mission that "serving ethnic minorities and race regions and serving the national development strategy", scholastic spirit centered with the principle of "Concordance, Self-confidence and Self-improvement", the scholastic management philosophy of “Entrenching of school by quality, Prospering of school by talent, Strengthening of school by Scientific research, and Forging of school by distinctness”, as well as the development path themed with “Scientific Development, Connotation Development, Characteristic Development, Innovative Development, Harmonious Development”, making it a value idea that is jointly followed and practiced by the teachers and students as a whole. This is an effective inheritance of the excellent traditional school-running philosophy, and it is a further deepening and development of the scholastic school-running concept in the new situation.

2.2 It is a reflection that the governance structure has been optimized and opened. The "Statute", taking the actual situation of the school into consideration, has clarified the powers, functions and operational mechanisms in the aspect of the school's party and government management system, academic governance system and democratic management supervision, defined clearly the responsibilities, rights and interests on the level of school and college, and definitely stipulated that, the democratic centralism be carried out on the level of school and college, which has optimized the governance structure within the school.

At the same time, it was proposed that a school council and alumni association be set up to open up an effective channel for social participation in school governance, making it possible for the school to consolidate all forces and integrate social resources, and reflecting the open and inclusive concept of school running and governance.

2.3 It has reflected the operational characteristics of the "collegiate system." The "Statute" clearly stipulates that the school implements a school-college two-level management system based on the "collegiate system". As the specific organizational and implemental unit of the university function and the relatively independent main body of school running, the party and government joint conference is the decision-making system, and the branch academic committee is responsible for performing academic power. The second-level teacher’s representative committee is the basic form of the faculty and staff’s participation in democratic management and supervision according to law. It stipulates organizational forms and operational rules of the party-government power, academic power, and democratic management supervision power at the secondary schools.

2.4 It has reflected the dominant role of teachers, students, staff members and workers. The "Statute" emphasizes to highlight the dominant role of teaching and administrative staff and students as well as their basic guarantee of rights and interests. It dynamically integrates the idea of running school by wholehearted reliance on teachers and students with the idea of safeguarding the legitimate rights and interests of teachers and students, integrates the teachers and students’ enjoyment of their rights with their fulfillment of obligations, maximally responding to the teachers and students’ demand for legitimate and reasonable interests, and they are endowed with substantive rights such as the right to development, the right to know, and the right to criticize and make suggestions, and their procedural rights like the right to defend themselves, the right to petition, the right of relief have been clarified. They are the safeguard and safety umbrella for the rights of teaching and administrative staff and students.

3. Taking the Comprehensively Implementation of the "Statute" as an Opportunity, Unceasingly Improve the School Governance System, and Accelerate to Advance the Construction of Modern University System

The authority of the law lies in imperativeness, and the vitality of the statute lies in practice.
Only when the school statute is truly implemented and carefully followed will it be not a mere scrap of paper. It is necessary to further strengthen the top-level design, comprehensively deploy and plan the improvement of system and mechanism along with the deepening of comprehensive reform, taking the comprehensively implementation of the "Statute" as an opportunity, unceasingly improve the school governance system, putting every reform into practice, and advancing the construction of "It is not difficult to set up rules, what is difficult is to make the rules imperative." The approval of the "Statute " does not mean that the school has realized a modern university system, it takes a process to build a modern university system since the introduction of statute, this process is a constant exploration, perfection and even arduous tempering and ever-lasting running-in. The party and government leading cadres at all levels have to strengthen the awareness of managing the school by law and acting according to the rules, and actually shoulder the duty of maintaining the dignity of statute and ensuring the execution of statute. The teachers and students of every ethnic background should go into action to use the statute to unify thinking and regularize behavior. Make the statute an important carrier to unite people's hearts and inspire morale, an important carrier for the implementation of management of school by law and the construction of a modern university system, and an important carrier for promoting the connotative development of schools and facilitating the schools to construct distinctive and high-level universities.
