

On the Important Role of Marxist Philosophy in Contemporary College Students' Education

Yao Ye

Weinan Normal University, Weinan, Shaanxi, 714000, China

Keywords: Famous Ethnic Spirit; Marxism; College Students' Education

Abstract: There is a deep connection between philosophy and national spirit. The Chinese-style Marxist philosophy and the contemporary form of the Chinese national spirit have a close relationship with each other. The national spirit of contemporary college students is directly related to the future of the country and has a great influence on the cause of building socialism with Chinese characteristics. As a builder and successor of the socialist cause, college students must seriously study Marxist philosophy and establish a scientific outlook on life and values. The education of contemporary college students should closely combine the teaching of Marxist philosophy with the cultivation of the national spirit of contemporary college students. Thus, we can correctly guide contemporary college students to understand the principles and methods of Marxist philosophy, as well as the essence of national spirit. This paper introduces the dialectical relationship between the teaching of Marxist philosophy and the cultivation of the national spirit of contemporary college students, and analyses the important role of the teaching of Marxist philosophy in the cultivation of the national spirit of contemporary college students.

1. Introduction

Attaching importance to and strengthening the education of Marxist philosophy theory among college students, especially those who are not majored in Ideological and political science, is not only an important part of higher education in China, but also in line with the policy direction of our country [1]. The cultivation of national spirit is a very important part of the ideological and political work of contemporary college students. The course of Marxist philosophy has been neglected in practical teaching, otherwise there will be no appeal at all levels. Marxist philosophy holds that the outlook on life, as a kind of social consciousness, is in the final analysis the product of certain social historical conditions and social relations. Human value lies first in dedication. Without dedication, there is no demand. Social value is the basis and source of individual value and the main aspect of human value [2]. Marxist philosophical theories are closely related to the profession, not universal, and not all colleges and universities have their corresponding philosophical and theoretical education. The key to university education is to help students have good qualities, not to teach how much knowledge [3]. Marxist philosophy and national spirit are the theoretical thoughts and important contents of the ideological and political education of Chinese college students, accurately understanding and grasping the dialectical relationship between Marxist philosophy and national spirit.

Contemporary college students should profoundly understand and understand the meaning of the value of life, and strive to learn scientific and cultural knowledge, and will contribute their wisdom and wisdom to socialism construction [4]. If a person has a good quality, even if the knowledge is constantly updated, the profession is constantly changing, and the working environment is constantly changing, they can adapt quickly. Many college students know very little about the most basic philosophical theory, and college students are eager to understand this field from their own [5]. They hope to learn more philosophical knowledge among college students, eager to provide a better atmosphere for philosophical and theoretical learning [6]. The rise of Chinese axiological research is rooted in the problems and theoretical logic of China, not in the introduction of foreign trends of thought, the translation and introduction of foreign axiological research achievements, or a few years after the rise of axiological research [7]. Using the rich spiritual resources of national culture to enrich and develop Marxist philosophy is a subject of great theoretical value and practical significance in university philosophy education, especially in Marxist philosophy education. We should guide contemporary college students to understand and master the theoretical content of Marxist philosophy, and further realize the important theoretical and practical significance and value of Marxist philosophy in education and teaching.

2. The Dialectical Relationship between the Teaching of Marxism and the Cultivation of National Spirit

From the design of the textbook of Marxist philosophy theory, the content coverage is still extensive, involving philosophical connotation, philosophical system, philosophical concept, building a socialist country, strengthening socialist humanistic cultivation and some important legal systems in China [8]. The prosperity and development of philosophy will also lead and lead to the improvement, renewal and sublimation of the national spirit, and create and create a new national spirit. From the central to the local to the school are calling for the importance of Marxist philosophy. This shows that we still need Marxist philosophy education. The masses of the people are the creators of history and the determining force of social change [9]. The current situation creates heroes, and outstanding figures play a great role in promoting the development of history. Although the theme of the study is constantly changing and developing, it has been basically carried out within the scope of Marxist philosophy and belongs to the basic theory of Marxist philosophy. It is natural to call its achievements Marxist axiology.

Students of all majors and disciplines in universities should earnestly study Marxist philosophy. This is determined by the characteristics of human practice, of various disciplines and of Marxist philosophy. Ideological education is a strategic choice for the Communist Party of China to liberate and build a socialist society. The construction of publicity and education work consists of two parts: design and implementation. The design here is to use the finite sample of the input to design the classifier, and the implementation is to classify or make decisions on the input sample data. as shown in Fig.1.

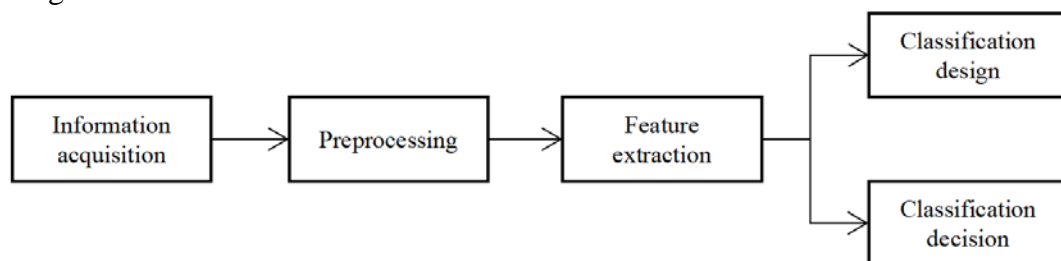

Fig.1 Basic structure of the model identification system

Compared with the national spirit of other nationalities, the national spirit of our country has its own characteristics, and it has a high degree of recognition and acceptance. In order to give full play to the teaching effect, teachers will carefully design each teaching activity. Therefore, although we constantly emphasize the need to give full play to the subjectivity of students. Philosophy is not only the rationality of national spirit, but also the conscience of national spirit in the process of enrichment, perfection, promotion, transformation and renewal of national spirit. With the deepening of research, especially in-depth understanding of the nature and characteristics of value and human value issues. When dialectically grasping the relationship between value and evaluation, it requires that the paradigm beyond the traditional epistemology, that is, the cognitive theory, be considered and observed from the perspective of practical theory or practical materialism. Marxist philosophy is the theoretical basis and guiding ideology of ideological and political education for college students in China. The cultivation of national spirit is a very important content of contemporary college students' ideological and political work. In order to make an objective and fair evaluation of student participation, a detailed evaluation mechanism must be developed. The significance of philosophy to the national spirit lies in the fact that philosophy is the necessary form for the development of the national spirit. Establish a standardized system of behavior to ensure the health and order of the new teaching environment.

3. The Important Role of Marxist Teaching in the Cultivation of National Spirit

Because of the limitations of class time in classroom teaching, students are greatly limited in the breadth and depth of information they receive. In the process of combining with the revolution of China and the cause of socialist modernization, Marxist philosophy has formed an indissoluble bond with the spirit of the Chinese nation. Marxist philosophy is an important form of self-consciousness, rationality and development of the national spirit. This is the embodiment and reaction of the important role of Marxist philosophy in cultivating the national spirit of contemporary college students. Life is full of contradictions, no one will be smooth sailing. Contemporary college students should cultivate their strong will and establish the belief that they must win [10]. Armed with scientific and cultural knowledge, give full play to their subjective initiative. The socialist market economy requires our graduates to have a firm and correct political orientation. Has a thinking mind strong sense of competition, analysis and problem solving ability. The construction of the resource bank of Marxist philosophy theory is different from that of other specialties. It aims at broadening the thinking of College students. The process of Sinicization of Marxist philosophy is the process in which the Chinese national spirit endows Marxist philosophy with special national cultural resources, elements and characteristics.

In order to successfully implement the new goal of teaching Marxist philosophy theory, we must have a sound system to guarantee it. The promotion and development of national spirit will fundamentally promote the prosperity and development of philosophy. Under the current situation, the opposition between the proletarian outlook on life and the bourgeois outlook on life is mainly manifested in the opposition between collectivism and individualism. Without the establishment and practice of the theory and practice of socialism with Chinese characteristics, there would be no great achievement in today's socialist modernization construction in China. The discussion and debate on methodology not only embodies the consciousness and maturity of the study of value theory, but also makes some deep differences in the philosophical view. Nowadays, in the ideological and political education of college students, it is not only necessary to pay attention to the understanding and grasp of the dialectical relationship between Marxist philosophy and national spirit. It is also necessary to apply the fundamental methods and theoretical content of Marxist philosophy. In the process of combining with the concrete practice of the Chinese revolution and modernization, Marxist philosophy promoted the modern transformation and promotion of the Chinese national spirit. Promoting the modern transformation of Chinese society from the core or foundation of culture.

Since the reform and opening up, exchanges between China and the cultures of the world have become increasingly frequent. The influx of a large number of Western capitalist social thoughts has hindered and negatively affected the development of contemporary Chinese society and Marxist ideological education. The popularization of publicity and education is an important experience of the Chinese Communist Party. The work of propaganda, education and ideology is, in the final analysis, the work of being a human being and realizing the unity of party spirit and people. The number of movies in the film about Marxist ideology and party building propaganda and education is shown in Table 1.

Table 1 Number of Marxism and Party Building Publicity and Education Films

Particular year	Documentary	Film
2015	12	413
2016	15	426
2017	17	405
2018	20	432

Historical materialism holds that social existence determines social consciousness, which reflects and reacts on social existence. The study of national axiology goes hand in hand with the movement of ideological emancipation and reform and opening up, but as a philosophical trend of thought, after all, it is premised on reflecting and criticizing the previous philosophical materials and concepts. There is a sense of urgency in the education of national spirit among contemporary college students. At this stage, there is a serious lack of national spirit among college students in China. The growth of any human spirit is practical and historic. Without the invention and improvement of agricultural production tools, there would be no agricultural revolution, and human beings would not be able to live a stable settlement life. The national spirit of each nation is the result of the blending of history and reality, and is the product of inheritance and innovation. The important role of Marxist philosophy in society also shows that we still need Marxist philosophy education. The Marxist philosophy of the textbook system has its own merits. It highlights the basic views of materialism and dialectics in a distinct form and clarifies the basic position of historical materialism. Historical materialism does not deny the existence of individuals and the personal interests and personal needs of reality, but insists that personal interests cannot be separated from social interests.

4. Conclusion

The national spirit of contemporary college students is directly related to the future of the country and has a great influence on the cause of building socialism with Chinese characteristics. In the classroom of Marxist philosophy, if you use inspiring questions and other methods, you can help the university to improve the ability of abstract thinking, dialectical thinking and expression of words. We must understand and master the dialectical unity between the teaching of Marxist philosophy and the cultivation of contemporary nationality. Maximize the important role of Marxist philosophy teaching in cultivating the national spirit of contemporary college students. We should fully guide contemporary college students to enrich and carry forward the spirit of harmony in the spirit of the Chinese nation on the basis of comprehensively grasping the harmonious thought of Marxist philosophy. It is of great practical significance to cultivate and improve the modern personality of college students and to build a harmonious socialist society in an all-round way. With the inherent nature of Marxist philosophy serving human emancipation, its advantage of unity of truth and value will win more and more believers for it. The cause of socialism with Chinese characteristics will also receive more and more supporters and supporters.

Acknowledgement

Weinan Normal University Humanities and Social Sciences Project (2018SKYM11)

References

- [1] Barber J P, King P M, Magolda M B B. Long Strides on the Journey toward Self-Authorship: Substantial Developmental Shifts in College Students' Meaning Making [J]. Journal of Higher Education, 2013, 84(6):866-896.
- [2] Dagirmanjian F R, Mcdaniel A E, Shadick R. Sexual Orientation and College Students' Reasons for Nonmedical Use of Prescription Drugs [J]. Substance Use & Misuse, 2017, 52(8):1011-1018.
- [3] Pasque P A, Rimmer J. Today's College Students: A Reader ed. by Pietro A. Sasso and Joseph L. DeVitis[J]. Journal of College Student Development, 2016, 57(1):112-114.
- [4] Wan Z H, Wong S L, Zhan Y. Teaching Nature of Science to Preservice Science Teachers: A Phenomenographic Study of Chinese Teacher Educators' Conceptions [J]. Science & Education, 2013, 22(10):2593-2619.
- [5] Tsai, Chin-Chung. Assessing South China (Guangzhou) High School Students' Views on Nature of Science: A Validation Study. [J]. Science & Education, 2014, 23(4):843-863.

- [6] Noakes S. The Role of Political Science in China: Intellectuals and Authoritarian Resilience [J]. Political Science Quarterly, 2014, 129(2):239–260.
- [7] Pun R. The Value of Intellectual Freedom in Twenty-First-Century China: Changes, Challenges, and Progress [J]. Library Trends, 2016, 64(3):556-571.
- [8] Bathina, Jyothi. When the Subaltern Finally Speaks [J]. Journal of Adolescent & Adult Literacy, 2014, 58(1):27-35.
- [9] Fauria R M, Zellner L J. College Students Speak Success [J]. Journal of Adult Development, 2015, 22(2):90-99.
- [10] Hongwei Y, Glanzer P L, Johnson B R, et al. Why College Students Cheat: A Conceptual Model of Five Factors [J]. The Review of Higher Education, 2018, 41(4):549-576.